How It's Made

Kusha weaves are natural fiber curtains/ Blinds that is made from the fibers of the vetiver plant and other aromatic crops, also known as khus. Khus Blinds were traditionally used in 19th century for cooling. They are different from other curtains/ Blinds due to their natural cooling and freshening properties. The natural scent of the vetiver provide a cooling and refreshing effect in hot, humid climates, and the breathable weave of the fabric allows for air circulation, which can help to regulate temperature and improve air quality in a room. Additionally, the natural aesthetic of the vetiver fibers add a unique, natural touch to a room's décor although the effectiveness of these cooling properties can vary depending on factors such as room size, airflow, and the climate. It's effectivity is observed against mosquitoes and insects by users and also mentioned in many studies and researches on vetiver grass, see Ref.
